

REAL ESTATE AND TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Puritanical Ideas at Sandringham Not Enough to Stem Tide of Fashion.

CABLE GOSSIP FROM BRITISH CAPITAL

BY LADY MANWARRING.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 15.—Even queen Mary has not been able to stem the social tide in favor of the tango and the silk skirt and both are gradually making their way into court circles. The first break on the tango came when her majesty gave way and received her partner on the dance by the servants of the royal residence.

In social functions where her majesty is not present, the tango is danced almost unanimously and old-fashioned members of the court are asking how long they will take its place on the program of a state ball. I hear, though I will not vouch for it, that princess Mary is learning the tango with the reluctant consent of her mother.

The slashed skirt has made its appearance at court since many of those present at the reception at St. James' palace appeared in these, though in modified form. It is true, moreover, the duchess of Devon has included more than one dress of this description in her wardrobe. It is stated that the beautiful gown in delicate gray chiffon that contains a most emphatic slit up one side.

Queen Tabooes Extremes.

Queen Mary's ideas on dress are quite as decided as those of queen Alexandra, and it is stated that a suggestion about the bridesmaids' dresses for the recent royal wedding being cut on a somewhat daring line, was at once vetoed. The queen feels strongly that full skirts, long sleeves and neckbands are the proper thing for day wear for young women and no argument as to fashion has any weight with her. Although most particular about dress, she is not an extreme of fashion should be worn at court, the queen is most generous in giving presents of dresses to her friends.

Queen Fond of Jewels.

Unostentatious as queen Mary has been in her collection of jewelry, she is a collector of the beautiful high pointed crown of pearls which she wears on many occasions when it is not necessary for her to assume her state dress.

In addition to her private collection of royal jewels, her majesty has, of course, the use of the crown jewels, which descend automatically from one queen to another.

One tiara of brilliant pearls particularly appealed to her and she makes frequent use of it. The tiara, which is a comment was made upon her "new" tiara, and it was proclaimed as another triumph for her taste.

Princess Loves Horses.

Princess Mary, an enthusiastic horsewoman and deeply loves to ride to the hounds. She has announced that while the royal family is in residence at Sandringham, she will ride with the west Norfolk pack whenever it hunts within reasonable distance of the palace.

It is only a short time ago that a love romance occurred in the household of the duke and duchess of Connaught, when Capt. Rivers Bulkeley, equerry to the duke, became engaged to Miss Evelyn Polley, lady-in-waiting to the duchess.

Now a similar event has happened in the household of princess Henry, Battenberg, for it is announced that a marriage has been arranged between Victor Corkran, the princess's equerry, and Miss Hilda Chester, who has been lady-in-waiting to the princess for some months.

Mr. Corkran is 40. Miss Hilda Chester is the daughter of a well-known actor and her father, who is well known for his great philanthropy.

Courtship in French.

A romance of love and war culminated this week with the marriage of Miss Elsie Ramsbottom in London. She was one of the three women surgeons at the Bulgarian base hospital at Kirk Killise and has just married a Bulgarian lieutenant.

Lieut. Panchett, of the 8th Bulgarian Infantry, the bridegroom, was shot through the leg at Lule Burgas, and his future bride noticed him in the hospital.

Miss Ramsbottom is a sister of the teacher of the Bulgarian school where she was married, another service taking place at the Greek church.

When the war began, Dr. (Miss) Ramsbottom was a house surgeon at

TAMMANY TO RETIRE TO ACTIVITY

Richard Croker Says Famous Organization Is Not Permanently Dead.

IRISH REJOICE IN MITCHELL'S ELECTION

BY LADY MANWARRING.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Nov. 15.—There was almost as much interest in the recent New York municipal election here as though it had been an Irish election. There is small cause for surprise, as the successful candidate was a grandson of one of Ireland's best loved patriots, his associates were all Irishmen, or sons of Irishmen and his opponent was the descendant of Irishmen. The sympathy of Irishmen was with the grandson of John Mitchell and his administration will be followed with keen interest here.

Richard Croker, the famous "chief" of Tammany, has been more or less amused by the comments of the newspapers that the defeat of his old organization means its annihilation.

Tammany Often Killed.

"Tammany has been killed so often," he said, "that it should be used to it by this time. But I note it is always resurrected after a very short period in the grave. Tammany is as imperishable as a monarchy, for in its organization and its fundamental methods it is nearly perfect representation democracy."

Leaders may make mistakes," continued Mr. Croker, "and be defeated and eliminated, but the organization lives throughout. It keeps close to the people and in the main family represents them. No organization of which this is true can be killed. Defeat is not always a bad thing for the organization. Long continuance in power is likely to render men careless and perhaps arrogant. Defeat acts as a corrective and brings them back to the proper perspective. I look to see Tammany more powerful in the near future."

The London Homoeopathic hospital, when the late Lord Lister, in November, 1912, Lieut. Panchett was already in the hospital at Lule Burgas. After the queen, who sometimes makes a point of duty as an orderly to the women doctors at the hospital where she was stationed. Although the lieutenant knew very little English, the courtship proceeded very smoothly, each party having a knowledge of French.

When Royalty Goes to a Show.

Among the complimentary tributes paid to Miss Braddon, the famous novelist, upon the attainment of her seventh birthday, was a photograph of the queen, who was seated next to her. The queen, who was seated next to her, was seated next to her. The queen, who was seated next to her, was seated next to her.

Refreshments at Communion.

A London friend up north writes me that there is more than a flutter up Edinburgh way, where the minister of St. John's church, finding the wine cups unexpectedly empty, bluntly reminded his congregation that the communion table is not a refrigerator.

Ancient Customs.

The collection of Egyptian antiquities at the Manchester museum has been a valuable reinforcement recently to the collection at the British Museum. The collection at the British Museum has been a valuable reinforcement recently to the collection at the Manchester museum.

Among these finds were little alabaster figures with lids to them, which are believed to have been used for cosmetics, such as might be used by Cleopatra and women of her time.

Some of the preparation is still left in the form of a fine powder. Then we find a palette stained with green malachite, with the powder of which the Egyptians were wont to paint their faces, and an ivory spoon, which is supposed to date back to a period just prior to the first Egyptian dynasty, and on which are represented two arms and hands, the latter forming the bowl of the spoon.

It is interesting to note that the canning industry in this country now finds its chief inspiration in two laboratories. One is that maintained by the National Canners' association, where chemical engineers and bacteriologists are co-operating with practical factory men to do everything possible to attain the scientific perfection in their business.

Another laboratory which has the in-

ENCOURAGE RAISING OF BETTER GRADE OF TOMATOES AND OTHER VEGETABLES.

Encourage Raising of Better Grade of Tomatoes and Other Vegetables.

ENABLES GIRLS TO GET BOOK MONEY

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—The canning industry as a manufacturing and commercial enterprise is being developed as rapidly as improved methods and the increasing demand for consumption will permit. How great is the service thus rendered in conserving the food supply can scarcely be overestimated. By far the greater part of the food products put up in tin cans are perishable in their nature, are grown in sections of the country where the market is already glutted, and but for the process of canning, would go to waste. Girls' tomato clubs are proving an aid to home canning.

It is apparent, however, to students of the food supply and the problems of conservation that the commercial canning factory cannot hope to do much more in this line than it is now doing. The chief desideratum now is to encourage canning of fruits and vegetables in the domestic kitchen—to save that which now goes to waste on the farm.

More Home Canning Needed.

More home canning, done at the proper season, would enable the average family to have fruits and vegetables throughout the year, would greatly reduce the cost of the food supply in the family budget and would save an astonishing amount of food that now is utterly wasted. The department of agriculture estimates that more than 30 percent of all the vegetables, fruits and berries that grow in this country go to waste, simply because they are produced in communities where marketing facilities are inadequate and where housewives have not learned to care for these surplus products efficiently, so as to make them available for use in the winter months.

Girls' Tomato Clubs Help.

The practical, sensible work being done in the rural districts, especially in the south, by the Girls' Tomato clubs, is having a tremendous effect on living conditions in rural communities. These clubs, organized in connection with the public schools, have worked many miracles.

In the first place, they encourage good gardening by stimulating the desire of each girl to grow good, sound tomatoes, and as many of them as possible.

They inculcate a knowledge of domestic science hitherto quite unknown in many rural districts by teaching the girls the art of cooking. The girls in the club must know how to pack their tomatoes properly.

They advance the cultural standard of living by giving to girls who never have had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

They give to girls who have never had any spending money whatever a supply of money although it may be as small as a nickel or a dime.

SOME OF VILLA'S FIGHTERS AND THE RESULT OF THEIR MARKSMANSHIP

Upper picture shows another group of Villa's men, who helped to take Juarez Saturday. Lower picture shows a building near the marketplace in Juarez, scarred all over by bullet marks from the heavy firing Sunday morning. Photo by Aultman & Dorman.

DOUGLAS AND BISBEE TO SEE GOLDEN STATE

Fine Transcontinental Train Will Go For First Time to Arizona Cities.

This Sunday is a day of rejoicing for towns between El Paso and Tucson, Ariz., on the line of the El Paso & Southwestern, and especially for Douglas and Bisbee, Ariz. They will get their first glimpse of the Golden State Limited train of the Rock Island system. Heretofore these trains have been routed over the Southern Pacific from El Paso to Los Angeles. Beginning with Sunday they will go over the Southwestern to Tucson. There they will be turned over to the Southern Pacific. The towns on the Southwestern will get their first glimpse of the continental train, an event for which they have been looking with great pleasure.

The first eastbound Golden State Limited train under the new E. P. & S. W. time schedule will arrive in El Paso Monday. The first westbound train will arrive Tuesday.

Tomorrow: Bee Keeping.

LIFTS QUARANTINE FOR TWO COUNTIES

Howard and Borden Counties are First in Texas to Come Under New Department of Agriculture Ruling.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Secretary of agriculture Houston has issued an order releasing on November 17, from federal quarantine for cattle Texas, Howard and Borden counties in Texas. The release of these two counties is the first visible effect of the general dipping order recently promulgated by the state live stock sanitary commission, requiring that between the dates of September 1 and December 1, 1914, all affected herds in the quarantined areas should be dipped twice, and all herds exposed to the parasite dipped once under state or federal inspection.

The department of agriculture, through the bureau of animal industry, is co-operating actively in the enforcement of this order, and since September 1, approximately 60 state and federal employees have been engaged in inspection and supervision of the dipping of cattle in the Pan Handle country of Texas. The Pan Handle Cattle Raisers' association is also co-operating with the state officials, and is expected as a result of this general dipping of cattle, that within a short time additional areas in Texas will be released from quarantine for cattle scabies.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

PECOS WANTS TO BE THE GATEWAY

Pecos, Tex., Nov. 15.—Pecos, through its commercial club, has decided to join Artesia Water Users' association of Artesia in a fight for the opening of Pecos as a gateway in and out of the upper Pecos valley, and for a general lowering of the freight rate to towns on the Santa Fe north of here.

Attorney R. B. Daniels, of El Paso, has been retained by the joint forces, and has filed intervention in the case now being prosecuted by the Roswell chamber of commerce before the interstate commerce commission. He has also filed intervention in the filing of the joint plea in intervention, and it is probable that Pecos will be heard before representation of the commission in Roswell Monday morning.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

NEW ALLIANCE LOYD GEORGE

IS GERMAN ENEMY

Kaiser Seeks to Cultivate Friendlier Feeling With England.

WEALTH OF GERMANS SHOWS BIG INCREASE

BY MALCOLM CLARKE.

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 15.—Thoughtful German statesmen are coming to the conclusion that the time is here for a re-alignment of the great powers. The constant and increasing friction between Austria and Italy, the marked coolness of the Vienna press to the Kaiser during his recent visit to the Austrian capital and other recent incidents indicate that the bonds of the triple alliance are becoming loose, and that with the expiration of the present protocol, Germany may seek other allies in the European concert. It is stated that the Kaiser himself is secure against any possible combination, but it is coming to be recognized that with France and England as allies, the Kaiser's position on land is concerned, and that the Kaiser is seeking a new ally on the sea.

German Wealth Increases.

Dr. Helfferich holds that Germany has now overtaken France, and even England in total wealth. Not, however, in wealth per head. After taking into account all estimates, native and foreign, the Kaiser's per capita wealth is between $1125 and $1295, England's as between $1275 and $1450 and France's as $1480. That is the wealth of the average individual in land, movable property, investments at home and abroad and cash.

Collectively and as a state, Germany is the richest of all three. The lowest estimate of her wealth is $7,215,000,000 and the highest $80,000,000,000 while England's wealth is between $57,000,000,000 and $55,000,000,000 and France's about $58,000,000,000. These estimates are below some estimates at Paris, which are between $70,000,000,000 and $80,000,000,000. Hereofore these trains have been routed over the Southern Pacific from El Paso to Los Angeles. Beginning with Sunday they will go over the Southwestern to Tucson. There they will be turned over to the Southern Pacific. The towns on the Southwestern will get their first glimpse of the continental train, an event for which they have been looking with great pleasure.

The first eastbound Golden State Limited train under the new E. P. & S. W. time schedule will arrive in El Paso Monday. The first westbound train will arrive Tuesday.

Tomorrow: Bee Keeping.

LIFTS QUARANTINE FOR TWO COUNTIES

Howard and Borden Counties are First in Texas to Come Under New Department of Agriculture Ruling.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Secretary of agriculture Houston has issued an order releasing on November 17, from federal quarantine for cattle Texas, Howard and Borden counties in Texas. The release of these two counties is the first visible effect of the general dipping order recently promulgated by the state live stock sanitary commission, requiring that between the dates of September 1 and December 1, 1914, all affected herds in the quarantined areas should be dipped twice, and all herds exposed to the parasite dipped once under state or federal inspection.

The department of agriculture, through the bureau of animal industry, is co-operating actively in the enforcement of this order, and since September 1, approximately 60 state and federal employees have been engaged in inspection and supervision of the dipping of cattle in the Pan Handle country of Texas. The Pan Handle Cattle Raisers' association is also co-operating with the state officials, and is expected as a result of this general dipping of cattle, that within a short time additional areas in Texas will be released from quarantine for cattle scabies.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.

The El Paso High school football team spent a few hours in Pecos on route to Roswell. They held a signal practice and light workout here.

Shippers say they are now being compelled to route their shipments north several hundred miles out of the way because of the fact that shipments will not be accepted at points east and west of Pecos on through consignments.

Shippers say the Santa Fe's rates cut from three to four dollars off the net profit of the upper Pecos valley farmer on every ton of hay that he ships to Texas markets, and other freight shipments. Complainers in the case base their hopes and claims upon the ruling of the commission in the well known Mesilla valley case.